Fab gadget: Mirror TV

What is it?

The Ad Notam Mirror TV (contact 0870-460 3431 for stockists) is a high-quality flat screen television, concealed behind a mirror.

How will it change my life?

It's all about interior decor. If you are sitting in the lounge reading this, the chances are that you have a big grey box in the corner looking unsightly. Imagine if you could change this for a lovely mirror instead. Finally you could realise the dream of not having your living space dominated by the television.

Why this one over the rest?

To our knowledge this product is unique. And, as is often the case, the simplest ideas are the best.

Or you could always . . .

Conceal your existing television set within a vast hall of mirrors, and then have endless fun trying to find it again. A complex series of curtains, wires and pulleys would be an equally challenging alternative.

Verdict

It may be just a fancily glazed television, but this is a great idea, and Ad Notam can provide sizes up to a 30in screen with a 1 metre (40in) mirror for £4,899, making this only slightly more expensive than a regular flat-screen television. We love it.
